LEADERS ASK MORE SPEED

Atlantic Division Reports $4,797,607 Already Pledged—Roosevelt Urges Sacrifice.

New York's total in the Second Red Cross War Fund Drive for a minimum of $100,000,000 in the entire country was $8,280,317.39 at noon yesterday, the second day. The largest individual subscription yesterday was $500,000 from Cleveland H. Dodge, in addition to the gift of $250,000 by the Phelps-Dodge Corporation. The largest corporation gift was $500,000 by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Yesterday contributions here were slightly below those of the day before, when the total was estimated at $4,500,000. The rate at which contributions have been received so far, if continued, would make New York's total about $29,000,000, which would be $4,000,000 above its quota. But if New York City does not go over its quota by more than $4,000,000, the leaders of the drive will be greatly disappointed. Word was sent out yesterday to team leaders and Red Cross workers to increase the speed and aggressiveness of the drive in every possible way.

Committees collecting in the business district and the workers making the house-to-house canvass worked hard all day yesterday in spite of the rain, which spoiled most of the open-air meetings.

Few Individuals to be Overlooked.

The Red Cross organization is so large in numbers and has worked out its plans in such detail that few individuals and firms will be overlooked, and most will be solicited many times, but any one who has been missed may make his contribution by a check payable to the American Red Cross, sent to "The American Red Cross, Woolworth Building."

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's appeal to investors in Liberty bonds to turn their bonds over to the Red Cross has produced a number of gifts of this kind, and the Red Cross wants all it can get. A ruling from Washington has been received, however, that War Savings Stamps cannot be accepted.

Several large meetings were held successfully indoors yesterday and last night, the greatest being the benefit given by Josef Hofmann, the pianist, at Carnegie Hall, at which Colonel Roosevelt stirred a large audience with an appeal in fervent and dramatic language, in which he rated the man who came out of the war with an increased fortune as second only to the draft dodger on the calendar of infamy.

Atlantic Division Reports $4,797,607.

The Atlantic Divisions of the Red Cross, which includes New Jersey, Connecticut, and New York State, with the exception of New York City, reported a total last night of $4,797,607. Wallingford, Conn., the home of Raoul Lufbery, whose death on Sunday ended the career of the great American flier, carried the banner for small cities in the Atlantic Division yesterday, having raised $8,412 against a quota of $4,000. New Haven raised $117,324, against a quota of $300,000; Hartford, $33,493, against a quota of $400,000; Nassau County $67,611, against $200,000; Westchester County, $65,326, against $175,000, and Schenectady, N. Y., $51,383, against $120,000. Bernardsville led the State of New Jersey yesterday with contributions totaling $35,000, against a quota of $25,000. Newark had raised $262,824, against a quota of $750,000, and Montclair $115,375, against $250,000. At the dinner at which contributions for New York City were announced John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Chairman of Committee 24, read a letter from Payne Whitney announcing a gift of $250,000 in memory of his uncle, Oliver H. Payne. Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was received with great enthusiasm at Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon, where he spoke at the Red Cross concert of Josef Hofmann. After complimenting Mr. Hofmann as a "great musician" and

"I am here to speak in favor of the Red Cross, in order that we may back up the young men at the front. Admirable though the Red Cross and kindred organizations are, they are admirable because in the second line they back up the men in the first line. The one prime duty of America is to put her well-trained and well-equipped soldiers in the front line by the millions. We are going to win this war, not by saying what a fine nation we are and not by paying compliments to one another. We will do it by realizing how far we have failed in our duty in the past. There is only one set of men who are entitled to the unlimited regard of their fellow-men today, and that is the set wearing the uniform of the army and navy of the United States and fighting for us and for those who come after. "We have been fooled by the pacifists, by the pacifists of both sexes, so far as you can predicate the sex of pacifists. The pacifists never kept a people out of war. Even a pacifist can be kicked into war. But the trouble with the pacifists is that they first invite the kicking and then prove themselves unable to do the fighting. The blood of the nation will be poured out in streams because of the foolish and short-sighted and timid refusal of the pacifists to permit us to harden our strength. It is the eleventh hour, but, thank heaven, it is not the twelfth hour. We can still back the men at the front, and the way to do it is by doing the thing that is next. The thing that is next this week is to help the Red Cross, which is helping the men at the front and their families behind."

In calling for liberal contributions Colonel Roosevelt said: "We must deny ourselves that they shall not be denied anything that we can give. I ask you to give till you feel it. The most shameful creature that this war can produce, with the exception of the young man who dodges his duty to serve his country, will be the man whose fortune has increased during this war. No man in America shall have the right to the respect of his fellow-Americans if, at the end of this war, he does not come out a little poorer than he went in. Give to the quick for the Red Cross. I ask you to feel ashamed and humiliated, if you do not give until you feel the effects of your giving. No man has any right to feel pride unless he feels anxiety and the effects of self-denial. Our pride can only be the pride reflected from their souls. If it is not given to us to do heroic deeds, let us do the best we can for the gallant young souls who are giving to the death."

The Red Cross sent out this note of warning yesterday regarding pro-German propaganda:

German propagandists are said to be busy on the east side among Italian residents spreading a fallacious report to the effect that all Italian subscribers to the American Red Cross War Fund will be listed for conscription. The report was immediately communicated to the local committee of the Red Cross War Fund organization in the Woolworth Building who took steps to investigate the alleged activity of east side Germans and report to the Department of Justice.

Italian Premier Sends Message.

The following cable message was received yesterday by the American Red Cross from Premier Orlando of Italy:

I learn with lively satisfaction of resolution in which Presidential Council has expressed its official appreciation of valuable work carried on by the American Red Cross. This action of the committee authoritatively interprets this nation's sentiment, and is a well-deserved recognition of the highly effective, intelligent help that, with true spirit of unity and brotherhood, has been rendered in Italy by this splendid institution.

ORLANDO.
The resolution referred to has been transmitted by Prince Colonna, the Mayor of Rome, and is as follows:

The Communal Council of Rome, in its meeting of April 29 last, has placed on the records with deepest satisfaction a report of the Committee of Civil Organization which, in order to interpret the gratitude of our people, expressed officially its appreciation of the splendid, meritorious work of the American Red Cross. The Communal Council, filled with admiration for the generous organization of the American Red Cross, gave voice to a desire that new ties of fraternal unity inspired by a noble purpose would join our nation indissolubly with the great American nation and thus confirm the welcome in Camp Italdio, where, with an acclaim that came from the heart, you were received. Today, as on that day, I am happy to be interpreter of the sentiments of the civic representatives and, in approving fully the action of the Committee of Civil Organization, I wish to express to you how much Rome appreciates the great mercy which the American Red Cross is doing for the common end and through which, on this side of the ocean and the other side of the ocean, arms, minds, and hearts are united with a radiant vision of certain victory. Accept assurance of my highest esteem.

Mayor of Rome, PROSPERO COLONNA.

Ambassador Page has transmitted by cable to the Secretary of State a high tribute to the work of the Red Cross by Colonel M. E. Ireland, Chief Surgeon of the Medical Corps in General Pershing's army.

The Newspaper Division began actively yesterday to collect subscriptions among 165 publications in English and other languages and will canvass 100,000 employees.

One of the largest photographs ever produced is being exhibited for the Red Cross at 308 Fifth Avenue. It is a picture of the battle of Vimy Ridge, thirty feet long and twelve feet high. This is one of 197 fine photographs taken by the French Red Cross, which have been enlarged and sent as a gift to the American Red Cross organization.
